

Notes on Contributors

Estella Antoaneta CIOBANU is associate professor at the Faculty of Letters, Ovidius University of Constanța, Romania. She teaches Identity and Gender in the USA, Culture and Religion in the USA, Postmodernism, and British and American Cultural Icons. Her academic interests include iconisation studies and gendered representations of the body in literature, medieval theatre, cartography, anatomo-medical practices and the arts. She is the author of Representations of the Body in Middle English Biblical Drama (Palgrave Macmillan, 2018), The Body Spectacular in Middle English Theatre (Ed. Etnologică, 2013), The Spectacle of the Body in Late Medieval England (Lumen, 2012) and over thirty articles, and co-author (with Petru Golban) of A Short History of Literary Criticism (Ūç Mart Press, 2008).

E-mail: estella_ciobanu@yahoo.com

Ana-Blanca CIOCOI-POP is Assistant Professor with the Department of British and American Studies at Lucian Blaga University of Sibiu. Her areas of interest range from 19th-century modern and postmodern British and American Literature, to Comparative and Global Politics. Ms. Ciocoi-Pop earned a Ph.D. in literature with the thesis Constructive Scepticism as Evinced in the Works of Franz Kafka, William Golding and Jeffrey Eugenides. She is also the author of three volumes published at LBUS Press: Zwischen Weltschmerz und Lebensbejahung: Elemente der jüdischen Mentalität in Franz Kafkas Kurzprosa (2005), Identity as Obsession and the Legacy of the Past in Jeffrey Eugenides' Major Novels (2005), and Notes on 19th Century American Literature (2007).

E-mail: anablancaciocoipop@gmail.com

Anca-Luminița IANCU is Assistant Professor in the Department of Anglo-American and German Studies at Lucian Blaga University of Sibiu, Romania. She received her M.A. in English Literature

(2005) and her Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition (2009) from the University of Louisville, KY, U.S.A. Dr. Iancu has published numerous articles on American literature and culture; she is the author of a book on literacy practices of 19th-century European-American immigrant women, a volume of translations of Kate Chopin's short fiction, and several books on academic writing and English for Specific Purposes. Her research interests include American culture and literature, gender studies, and ethnic studies. E-mail: anca.iancu@ulbsibiu.ro

Mădălina Larisa KIMAK is a third-year doctoral candidate in the field of Humanities at the West University of Timișoara. She holds an M.A. degree in American Studies from the same university. Her current research focuses on the American writer Cormac McCarthy in relation to the postmodernist evolution of the Southern Gothic genre. Previously she has done research on the aesthetic category of grotesque, representations of childhood and adolescence in European literature, the evolution of Gothic literature, as well as linguistic devices employed by the media. E-mail: madalina.kimak@yahoo.com

Sohaib MALKAWI is now an independent researcher with a master's degree in English Literature and Criticism from Yarmouk University, Jordan. He completed his master's in 2017. He earned his bachelor's degree from AABU in English Language and Literature in 2015. He has been working as an English teacher at UNRWA since March 2017. His research interests are mainly in Jungian and post-Jungian studies, their application in literary analysis, and their association with the bildungsroman experience with its critical and philosophical ramifications. E-mail: smet993@yahoo.com

Diana MELNIC is currently a member of the Research Centre for the Study of the Contemporary British Novel at Babeș-Bolyai University, Cluj-Napoca, Romania. She has graduated from an Irish Studies MA with a dissertation on the ethics of alterity in James Joyce's Ulysses. She is also a graduate of English literature and comparative literature whose bachelor's thesis focused on the ethics of memory and grief in Julian Barnes' 2013 Levels of Life. Her research interests include contemporary Irish and British fiction, digital humanities and game philology.

E-mail: diana.melnic3@yahoo.com

Vlad MELNIC is a member of the Research Centre for the Study of the Contemporary British Novel at Babeş-Bolyai University, Cluj-Napoca. He has recently graduated from an Irish Studies MA with a dissertation on the significance of the body and of walking in James Joyce's Ulysses. He studied English and comparative literature at an undergraduate level and his BA thesis focused on narrative embodiment in Salman Rushdie's 2008 novel The Enchantress of Florence. His passion for storytelling and video games has steered him towards cultural studies and digital humanities.

E-mail: vlad.melnic8@yahoo.com

Ewelina MIERZWA has been a doctoral student in English language and literature at the University of Opole, Poland since 2018. She has participated in a number of international academic conferences (in Poland, the Czech Republic, Germany and Romania) and published articles on the relationship between Foreign Language Enjoyment (FLE) and gender, FLE among FL teachers, and the sources of FLE. Her main research interests concern psychology, psycholinguistics, the role of affective factors in SLA, especially the relationship between enjoyment and anxiety, the positive psychology of learning and academic achievement; as well as andragogy.

E-mail: ewciamierzwa@gmail.com

Ilina-Mihaela STĂNCULETE is a Ph.D. student at West University of Timișoara. She graduated from the Faculty of Letters, West University of Timișoara in 2013 and then, in 2015, she earned her Master's degree from the same university. Her research interests focus on the political discourse as this issue has become more and more publicized over the years, occupying a central place in promoting a society's values. The specific emphasis of her research is on the analysis of the investment speeches given by the Romanian and British Prime Ministers who governed their respective countries in the period between 1970 and 2010. The comparative analysis of the Prime Ministers' speeches would represent an opportunity to generate new ideas in the specialised literature. She is currently a member of the Department of Scientific Research and Academic Creation at West University of Timișoara.

E-mail: stanculete.mihaela@yahoo.com